

Sept 9, 130hz, left side goal

Trails - E goes in and up and millimeters toward the correct side and the fork slowly. Before reaching the fork, e turns back toward the entrance, but doesn't completely turn around, then continues on toward the fork. E sits there, looking into the correct side. Then back and forth. E goes into the fork on the correct side, and starts nearly in, then goes to the middle and sits there, seemingly undecided. Then, e turns around and goes back toward the entrance. Half way to the entrance, e begins to turn around again toward the correct side and heads that way back toward the fork. E has one minute. E sits between the speakers on the correct side and begins to retract. The 10 minutes end, I open the cap and lay down some cucumber. E does some circles then I end up having to remove em.

Big Yellow - E goes in and up. E goes toward the fork on the wrong side but goes into the fork on the correct side, skipping the wrong side. E millimeters to the end. Right before entering the cap, e turns around and heads back toward the fork. Then, e does some circles in the correct side tube. Then, e heads into the cap of the correct side. E wanders around in there until eir ten minutes is up at which point, I open the cap with em still inside.

Dr. Strange - E heads in and up and down the middle toward the fork, then shortly goes over to the correct side before even reaching the speakers. E goes to the fork on that side and once e reaches the fork, looks around. E stops and stairs int the correct side for a while then wavers back and forth again. Then, e lingers on the wrong side and even millimeters closer and looks like e might go in, but then turns over to the other and looks like e might go in there, but then just stays there, not entering. E starts going toward the bottom of the tub on that side and is doing that when the 10 minutes is up. I open the cap and lay down some cucumber and e turns to go in and takes eir time but exits the maze and chomps on the cucumber.

Isabella - E goes in and heads down the fork on the correct side. When e gets to the fork, e looks back and forth, not entering the fork. E begins turning around toward the entrance, then turns back, but not all the way and just sits there. E stays in this position for the rest of the 10 minutes. I open the cap and lay down the cucumber. E slightly looks over then goes back to eir position. After two minutes, I spray em. After another minute, e goes in and exits.